Fowlmere Flyer

A HINTON HELLO

As we approach the final stretch, I am mindful of how tired the school community is; but how much joy and fun there still is in the school.

The Nativity production was a wonder (and will be well remembered for the sinking microphone), the children learnt their lines so very well and entertained us all beautifully.

I look forward to seeing you at the Christingle Service at St Mary's Church on Tuesday from 1.30pm to 2.30pm and for the Achievement Assembly on Wednesday at 2.30pm.

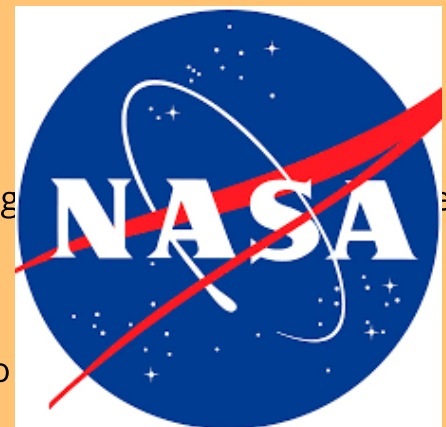

May I take this opportunity to wish you a wonderful Christmas and a joyous new year celebration.

MARS BALLOON

Well done Mrs Stanley !

We are proud to announce that Fowlmere Primary School is the winner of the MARS Balloon Engineer's Choice Award (primary) organised by NASA in the year.

The award was for the experiment on the conductivity of fuses on Mars under cold temperatures. The engineers liked our approach to the problem, it was an experiment option they hadn't seen before, and the team overwhelmingly marked it as their favourite.

Fingers crossed for our entries next year !

HEDGEHOG HOSPITAL

Shepreth Hedgehog hospital are in need of any newspapers or any donations for their hospital

If you would like to make any donation please bring these to the school office.

STAR RADIO

Josh Lovatt came into Fowlmere Primary School Today to record Sleeps till Santa, with some of our School Children.

The interviews and singing will be played on Saturday's show throughout the day.
